OHHH, FIFI!

BARBARA was mad. She looked at her watch for the twelfth time that evening and continued to stare out her bedroom window at the empty street, expecting any moment to see Tommy shuffling along the street, whistling, and taking his time as he always did, as if he didn't know he was late for their usual Friday night date.

When she finally spotted him, moving slowly, picking nonchalantly at the hedges that lined the street, looking up at nothing at all, her blood began to boil, although in her heart she was glad to see he hadn't forgotten the date entirely.

"Honestly, he's been so absent-minded lately, it's awful," Barbara said under her breath as she ran to the front door to let her boyfriend in.

Tommy looked as if it were the most natural thing in the world to be an hour late for a Friday night movie date.

"Wellllll, Mr. Barden," Barbara scowled, tapping her foot, impatiently, "What's your excuse THIS time?"

"Excuse? Huh Oh . . . oh, gosh, Barbara, I guess I'm late again. I don't know . . . there were so many things to do around the house before I could come over, I guess the time just slipped by." he tried to explain.

Barbara had her coat ready, and she slipped it on hurriedly. "C'mon," she urged, "or we'll never make the last show!"

"Last show . . . er, what last show?" questioned Tommy.

"Oh, you are impossible . . . Don't you remember telling me we would go to the Royale to see that swell mystery picture?"

"Picture?" Tommy was confused. Then he looked at his girlfriend, and remembered suddenly his promise. "Oh, sure . . . the mystery . . . well, let's go!"

Barbara was pretty well used to this behavior, as she had seen it for the past few days. Tommy sometimes even forgot that she was around, and spent long, silent minutes staring thoughtfully up at nothing while she tried to keep up a sensible conversation.

When she saw Ellie Barden in school on Monday, she was determined to find the cause of Tom's strange actions. Ellie was Tommy's younger sister, and Barbara thought that surely Ellie would know something about it.

Ellie stared at Barbara when she first was asked about Tommy. "You say he's been absent minded? I don't . . . OH, of course. It's FIFI."

Barbara couldn't understand. "Fifi? Who . . . FIFI! Ohhh . . ."

Ellie continued to explain. "You see, Daddy said that Fifi would be coming to the house on Tommy's birthday. Oh, she's gorgeous . . . her hair is jet black, and it's long and silky. Wait'll you . . ."

Barbara began to see the answer to her questions. "Well, I must say he's trying to hide this whole thing from me. I don't know who this Fifi gal is, but just wait till I get my hands on Tommy. Thinking about another girl . . . especially a girl named FIFI, when he's supposed to be dating me . . . just wait . . ." She ran away quickly, anxious to find her betrayer.

Ellie shouted, "No . . . oh, Babbie . . . let me tell you about . . . oh, it's too late . . . she's already gone." She threw up her hands helplessly, and continued on to her next class.

Before Barbara could find Tommy, the bell for the next class rang, and she could hardly sit still through English class as she thought about the dirty, low-down trick of Tommy's, and about that vixen, Fifi.

When class was finally over, she almost tripped over Tommy as he walked toward the exit at three o'clock, staring straight ahead, but at nothing in particular.

Barbara grabbed his arm and pulled him back. "Just a minute, you . . . you . . . GIGOLO. I want to have a few words with you."

"Words? Hey, what's wrong, Babbie, you look sorta . . . sorta MAD."

"Mad isn't the word, Mr. Barden. I am furious. I have been misled, tricked . . . and to think that I could've trusted a scheming, no-account male like you. Oohhh, I could scream. Why didn't you tell me about Fifi?"

Tommy brightened. "Oh, Fifi . . . gosh, how did you know about her? I asked Dad to bring her around on my birthday, and he finally promised. Awww, I wanted to surprise you . . . gosh, wait'll you see HER."

"Oh, is that SO, Tom William Barden, Jr. Well, I won't ever see her. Or you, for that matter! I hope you have a perfectly . . . a perfectly . . . MISERABLE day on your birthday . . . with FIFI." With those furious words, Barbara almost ran away from Tommy, humiliating tears running down her cheeks.

Barbara spent the evening at home feeling perfectly horrible. She had all sorts of visions of Fifi, with long, flowing hair that fell in lovely waves down her back. She saw Tommy acting silly over the supposedly beautiful Fifi, blushing and babbling away at meaningless conversation while being taken in by a scheming, glamorous woman.

Then she remembered that the next day was the fourteenth of the month, and Tommy's birthday. For a minute she was alarmed when she remembered she hadn't thought about getting him a birthday present at all, she had been so upset by his manner, but then when she remembered that Fifi would be helping him to celebrate his birthday, she was thankful she hadn't spent any time on looking around for a present he would like.

But then she remembered that this was the first birthday they hadn't celebrated together ever since they had begun to go steady two years ago, and she felt a little sad as she put on her coat and left the house.

Without realizing it, she was walking toward Tommy's house. When she looked up at the familiar house, she was surprised, and then the thought of Fifi being in there with HIM made her angry again. As she was about to turn about quickly and head for home again, the sound of merry laughter coming from the Barden house reached her ears. Her curiosity about the glamorous Fifi overshadowed her anger, and she sneaked up quietly to the side window, so she could look into the living room.

"There's Mr. and Mrs. Barden, and Ellie, and --- Tommy . . . they're all laughing and having a wonderful time . . . but where . . . where . . . OH, FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE!" She began to laugh uncontrollably, and when Tommy looked outside to see about the noise, he motioned for Barbara to come in.

She did, and when she saw Fifi, she picked her up in her arms and cuddled her. She had long, silky black hair, and was beautiful, alright . . . with the most soulful eyes. Fifi was a cocker spaniel.

Then Barbara turned to Tommy. "I . . . I guess I haven't had much time to shop for something you'd really like, but . . . well, here's an I.O.U." She kissed him on the cheek.

Tommy blushed as he always did. Then he smiled and said, "Gee, this is the best birthday ever. Mom, Dad, Ellie, Barbara . . . and FIFI, too."

It covers practical, useful subjects in everyday language. It's like having private instructors in your own home. Learn at your own pace. No outside work, nothing else to buy. The books start from the beginning, assume no previous knowledge and lead you quickly and carefully through the entire subject. Prepared by experts for adults working without supervision, they also perfectly supplement classroom texts, which contain confusing technical language.

Beautiful Library Volumes Perfect for Learning, Brush-Up, Permanent Reference

Whether you want to learn for the first time, review subjects you forgot or use for ever-ready reference, you could find no better set or price. These handsome 7¼ x 10½ inch, 24-carat gold imprinted, matched library volumes are not digests or outlines. Every point is made absolutely clear by illustrations and simple step-by-step explanations, using everyday situations. No half-answers to confuse you, no cross-references to make you use several books to get information. All the books teach you naturally, without memorizing long lists of rules.

Complete Explanations, Simple Illustrations Make Every Point Clear—No Previous Knowledge of the Subject Required

Here's how complicated subjects are MADE SIMPLE. In PHYSICS MADE SIMPLE, you are shown this simple home experiment, which costs nothing. Hold one edge of a letter paper against your chin, just below lower lip, with the paper hanging over and down. Blow above the paper and it will rise as if pulled up in the air stream. This simple principle makes airplanes fly and teaches us to make moving objects move quickly and easily. Other books give you Bernoulli's Law, molecular action and other confusing terms. By the time you got to the experiment, if there was one, you wouldn't understand it. Here you read a simple explanation, do the experiment and then learn the technical terms, so you learn naturally, by doing, without memorizing anything. This has worked for many people who thought they were more hopeless than you may think you are.

You would pay many times the price for much less beautiful and useful encyclopedias. But these books, with sample military and civil service tests, hundreds of illustrations, hundreds of safe, easy home experiments, thousands of pages of clear, concise, valuable instruction and self-tests with answers in the back, will be USED, ENJOYED and ADMIRED by all your family and friends.

Albert Dorne – probably the greatest money-maker in the history of commercial art. At the height of his career, he began a full-time search for people who like to draw.

He's Looking for People Who Like to Draw

TODAY HUNDREDS of men and women who never thought they could be artists are working happily at easels and drawing boards, making pictures, and getting well paid for it. They all can thank Albert Dorne, a famous artist who devotes almost his full time to helping other people become artists.

Some of the people Dorne has helped

Herb Smith was a payroll clerk. Soon after he started studying with us, he landed an art job with a large printing firm. This was four years ago; today he's head artist for the same firm.

John Busketta is another. He was a pipefitter's helper in a big gas company. Today he still works for the same company, but as an artist in the advertising department, with a big increase in pay.

Harriet Kuzniewski was bored with an "ordinary" job before she heard of Albert Dorne. Today she does high-style fashion illustration in New York.

With the right training, Wanda Pickulski gave up her typing job to become fashion artist for a local department store.

John Whitaker of Memphis was an airline clerk two years ago. Recently he won a national cartooning contest and was signed to do a newspaper comic strip.

Long before Albert Dorne started looking for people who like to draw, they came to him for advice and help. Since he alone could only help a few of these people he called together America's most successful artists —men like Norman Rockwell, Jon Whitcomb. Stevan Dohanos and Al Parker.

A Plan to Help Others

He said: "All over America, there are people who like to draw, who could be turned into good artists. Why can't we give these people the training they need—including all the trade secrets and know-how we've learned over the years? I'm suggesting a new kind of school—a home-study art school that would give talented people the best professional art training, no matter where they live."

America's 12 Most Famous Artists

Norman Rockwell	Fred Ludekens
Jon Whitcomb	Ben Stahl
Al Parker	Robert Fawcett
Stevan Dohanos	Austin Briggs
George Giusti	Harold Von Schmidt
Peter Helck	Albert Dorne

The famous artists agreed. Taking time from their busy careers, they spent several years creating a remarkable series of art lessons covering every aspect of drawing and painting. They illustrated their lessons with over 5,000 "here's-how" illustrations. The lessons start from scratch and cover every skill a top artist needs. Finally, the famous artists developed a wonderful way to give each student personal correction and advice all through his training.

Albert Dorne is not surprised by the success of his students. "The art field is growing. We keep getting calls from all over the country, asking us for practical, well-trained students who can step into full-time or part-time art jobs."

Famous Artists Talent Test

To find others with art talent worth developing, the famous artists created a 12-page talent test. Thousands paid $1 for this test, but now the School offers it free and will grade it free. If you show talent on the test, you will be eligible for training by the School. No obligation. Simply mail coupon. It might be your first step to an exciting, well-paid career in art.
